

Brandon Pegula
Full Stack Developer

A beat down, second-hand MacBook is responsible for this letter. It's also responsible for hundreds (soon to be thousands) of coding hours. This old Mac has given me the distinct journey of becoming a Developer.

What ignited my passion? My unstable thirst for creation. I'm a storyteller at heart so I set down my Moleskin and opened VS Code. It was time to brew install some new skillsets: HTML, CSS, Javascript, Node, React, Ruby... And tirelessly develop my ending. Front to Back and sometimes Back to Front.

I bring that same passion to the programming languages and scripts I've laid fingertips on. But I won't stop there. Sometimes you need to overclock your tenacity to successfully render your dreams. I'm an advocate of cramped hands, tired eyes, and the insatiable thirst for the next challenge.

Thank you for your valuable time.